DETAILED ACTION

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

1. A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 12/30/03 has been entered.

Election/Restrictions

2. Claims 5-15 remain withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected species, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in Paper No. 6.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Saitou of record.

Saitou (Figs. 17-18) teaches a microwave (i.e. high frequency) circuit including: the device/circuit is on a substrate (i.e. the device is an integrated circuit); a transistor (10) (i.e. an active element), an output line (20) and a first pad can be arbitrarily designated the main circuit (i.e. such a designation is arbitrarily based upon one's perspective); a circuit block can be arbitrarily labeled as the capacitor (22) (i.e. a passive element) connected to the wide electrode that is parallel to the main line, and the other end of the capacitor (22) is connected to ground (the wide electrode portion connects the capacitor 22 to the second pad) (i.e. the circuit block comprises the wide electrode, capacitor 22, and ground); a second pad formed by the electrode portion that is perpendicular to the output line connects to the first pad through a wire (L) (Claim 1); an input terminal is at the gate of the transistor and the transistor and first pad are between the input terminal and the output terminal (i.e. the end of the output line) (Claim 2). Also, note that it is inherent that the impedance of a capacitor decreases with the increase of the input frequency since impedance of a capacitor is related to the inverse of frequency (Claim 3).

Response to Arguments

5. Applicant's arguments filed 12/30/03 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the main circuit of Saitou includes at least a capacitor as a passive element.

Applicant's argument is not persuasive because the designation of the main circuit is an arbitrary selection of circuit components based on one's perspective (see the rejection above for details).

Also, Applicant argues that neither of the pads of Saitou is "electrically" located between the input and output terminals.

This argument is not commensurate with what is claimed. Present claim 2 merely states that the active element and first pad are between the input and output (as detailed in the rejections).

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claim 4 is allowed.
